

Boliwala.com — Where The Project Stands

Updated: 15 August 2026 · Target launch: 15 September 2026

What the website does today

For anyone visiting — no login needed

- Browse every live auction property, free
- Search and filter by city, price, bank, property type and possession status
- See full address, reserve price, EMD, auction date, and download the bank notice
- Request a callback about any property
- Read the pricing, services, about and FAQ pages
- Apply to become a channel partner

For members — free account

- Sign up with email, or with Google in one click
- 5 free credits on signup
- Spend a credit to unlock hidden details on a property: flat number & floor · inspection date & time · bank officer contact
- Once unlocked it stays unlocked — never charged twice for the same thing
- Save properties to a shortlist
- Save a search and be alerted when new matching properties appear
- Manage personal details, including optional PAN and Aadhaar

For paying members

- Annual members see every hidden detail without spending credits
- You set the prices yourself in the admin panel and the website updates immediately — no developer needed

For your team — the admin panel

- Dashboard with live business numbers
- Add, edit, publish and withdraw property listings
- Upload property photos
- Bulk-import properties from an Excel sheet — it matches your column names automatically and shows a preview before anything is saved
- Handle callback requests: see who asked, mark them contacted, then closed
- Change prices and credit costs yourself

Other things worth knowing

- The homepage is about 50× lighter than it was. It used to load nearly 11 MB of images — slow and expensive on mobile data. It now loads about 0.2 MB and looks identical.
- Google can now find your properties. Every property has its own proper title, description and link preview, and the site tells search engines about new listings automatically as you add them.
- The numbers on the site are now real. The homepage used to claim "12,400+ live auctions", "140+ cities" and "18+ banks". Those figures were invented, and they contradicted each other in different places — the homepage said 18 banks while the login page said 40. They now count what is actually in the system and update by themselves as you add properties.
- A private page had been left open. The channel partner dashboard was reachable by anyone on the internet, showing made-up earnings figures. It now requires a login.
- A paid detail was being given away free. On one property, the plot number people would pay a credit to unlock was already visible in the public address. Fixed, and we now check all properties for this automatically.

What's in the system right now

Live properties loaded	12
Banks loaded	6
Cities covered	11

These are sample properties loaded for testing. Once you send the real list, the numbers shown on the website update on their own.
